First Coin of the Sangam Age Resurfaces

by R Vaidyanadhan

The first Sangam Age coin found with a Tamil Brahmi script, first reported to be found in 1987, as mentioned in the works of Sir Walter Elliot, Dr. R Krishnamurthy and R. Nagaswamy in their works, has come to my possession. This copper coin is known as Kollip-ppurai.

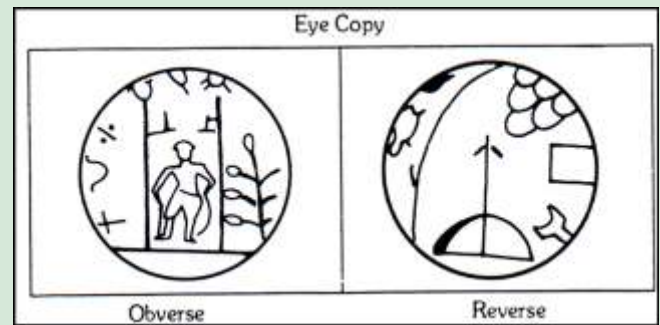

This has a warrior standing in front of a victory arch, a tree railing and script around the figure. The obverse has a bow-and-arrow, three-arched hills, tortoise and fish in a river and two other symbols.

The trio mentioned it in their works viz. Coins of South India, Journal of the Numismatic Society of India, 49, 1987, pp-36-38 and the Dinamani newspaper.

A variant of the Kollip-purai is in the possession of Dr. Krishnamurthy who published this in his magnum opus "Sangame Age Tamil Coins" in 1997.

The king Kollippurai ruled the region known as Kolli Malai (Kolli hills, now in the Salem district of Tamil Nadu).

See the picture of the coin and eye-copy for the details of the coin.

Amazing Collectors

End of an Era - One Rupee Notes

by R Vaidyanadhan

The long and colourful history of the 'One Rupee' currency note, which existed for 77 years, came to an end in 1994.

Though the idea of introducing banknotes in India began in 1770 (Bank of Hindostan), the necessity for "One Rupee" as such did not find any favour among the bankers or the Government for well over a century and a half.

The first "One Rupee" note introduced in 1917 by the Government of India shows the then one rupee coin with the portrait of the King George V. These notes, printed in England, had the signature of M.M.S. Gubbay and AC McWaters. And uniquely they were introduced in booklet form (25 notes in one book). It continued to be in circulation till 1939.

The second multi-colour note with frozen date 1935, printed at Nashik, was put into circulation during the reign of King George VI (on July 24, 1940) – well after the death of George V and the abdication of Edward VIII in December 1936.

The note bearing the King George VI one rupee coin, signed by C.E. Jones, was again introduced only in 1944.

The Republic of India "One Rupee" note though began its journey in 1949, had a few pauses before it bid adieu with the 1994 issue. The series of notes were issued in 1949-51; 1957; 1963-1981 and 1983-1994.
